2020 will be remembered as the year of the pandemic. The global spread of COVID19 has changed the lives of billions of people and is likely to continue to do so in the future. The epidemic has forced us to reflect on our relationship with the planet we inhabit, to re-evaluate the issue of sustainability and to confront conspiracy.

It therefore seemed natural to close the 2020 edition of the Geopolitical Social Security and Freedom Journal by dedicating Issue 2 to the pandemic, with a series of contributions by scholars from different countries who address the issue from a cross-cutting perspective.

We dedicate this Issue to those who have lost their lives to COVID-19, those who have been bereaved and all those who have gone through this unexpected storm
